

Social Responsibility

The computer classroom syllabus includes the social responsibilities and spirit of Humanity.

We imbue the students to work hard, do teamwork, be honest, possess integrity, tolerate other faiths and castes, and promote fairness and equality to build a more civilized world.

We encourage them to do community service, care for the environment, and help fellow students.

The social responsibility and human value systems are built to safeguard the purpose of Humanity, i.e., taking care of oneself and one's family while observing social, moral, ethical, and legal norms and helping fellow humans. We must understand that shared values and ethics protect and nourish us all. We cannot negate either self or Humanity, so we should strive to attain a balance between these two to survive and progress.

Dr. Purna Bikkasani, MD

Founder of Chaitanya Saradhi Trust